

FUTURE WORKFORCE & MOBILITY

Most 'Generation Z' University Seniors Want to Work Abroad

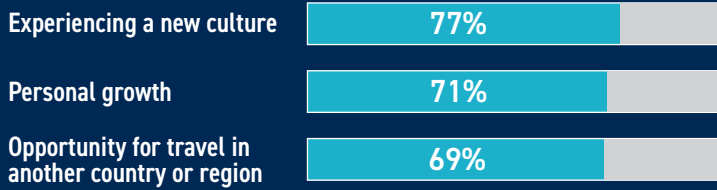

are interested in working in another country are more likely to accept a job offer with a company with work-abroad options

TOP 3 REASONS

TOP 3 BARRIERS

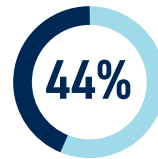

WILLING TO MAKE PERSONAL SACRIFICES TO WORK ABROAD

would postpone buying their first home

would put off having children

would postpone marriage

"Today's university students appear to be enthusiastic risk takers, and they're looking for careers that will fulfill their strong desire to explore the world, even if that means foregoing traditional measures of success." – Bill Graebel, CEO of Graebel Companies, Inc.

Those interested in working abroad are more likely to...

Here's to the World Ahead.SM

GRAEBEL[®]

WORKFORCE
MOBILITY

Denver | Atlanta | London | Dublin | Prague | Singapore | Shanghai | Graebel.com

SOURCES:

Cite Research, on behalf of Graebel Companies, Inc., conducted a survey among 500 U.S. university seniors. Respondents were screened to be seniors in the 2017-2018 school year. Research was conducted online from August 4 – August 10, 2017.

© 2017 Graebel Companies, Inc. All rights reserved. All trademarks are property of their respective owners.